

The Nannafesto

Nannas for Native Forests are mothers, grandmothers and great-grandmothers from all walks of life and of all political persuasions, who share a deep concern for the well-being of our children, our children's children and the forests that keep us alive. We cannot sit and watch our children becoming more and more fearful of what lies ahead of them.

We are talking plain common sense, backed by scientists and academics all over the world.

We are asking our state government to immediately protect all WA's native forests from logging and clearing for climate and biodiversity and to complete the transition from native forest logging to plantations and farm forestry.

Many of us have never taken action before, but we are taking it now because it will be too late sooner than we think. We will talk to people about our concerns. We will engage with those who sell and buy our native forests. We will continue to call out the government on this unsustainable and unnecessary industry.

We are respectful and dignified at all times, we are informed and focused and we stand strong, proud and determined. We know that protecting forest ecosystems is only the start of what must happen to keep Earth habitable.

We are inviting everyone who loves life and their children to join us. There are many ways you can say 'Protect your forests so they can protect you'. Many ways in which you can help to organise and communicate. Many ways you can encourage others to see that we need 'Forests for Life'.

Our children need forests.

Our forests need you!
